

Know it all shawl

Why play this game?

Share the learning and expertise in the room in a fun and playful manner.

How does it work?

1. Introduce the topic or ask a question.
2. Invite participants to come up one at a time, wear the "know it all shawl", present what they know about this topic and then take questions from other participants.
3. If the person wearing the shawl answers one question they get a cheer. If they answer a second question they get a bigger cheer. If they answer a third question they get (in a friendly, good natured way) booed off the platform no matter how good their answer is!
4. Go through as many questions and participants as the group wants.

What do we need?

A shawl or other garment.

Let's mix it up!

Reverse the game. Introduce the topic and invite participants to wear the "daft as a bat hat" and either:

- Talk about mistakes they have made or that they have seen others make and the impact of these mistakes.
- Or deliberately give out obviously bad advice for humorous effect!
